After calling the meeting to order the president addressed those present. His address covered several subjects, among which was some good advice to raisers of berries to take more care with their packing and sorting so that the fruit might reach the market in that will be an honor to the town, better condition than had been the custom in the past. He also advised that all berries that were $\frac{1}{18}$ of an inch in diameter, or smaller, be be in readiness by the middle of F screened from the best fruit and thus roary, the date to be settled later.

add to the quality of the berries,

H. O. Kruschke was not present to show his pneumatic berry picking device but the rough model that he exhibited in this city last fall was presented by Charles Briere, who exdained its mechanism and advantages provided it was thought feasible. Much interest was displayed in the matter as any device will be weljost of picking, which in the past has uade the close competition with eastwo models of pickers exhibited from he east. They were much the same is what is known as the eranberry ake in this locality, and only differed dightly in construction from what ias been used here. These rakes have been abandoned in the past in this section, however, owing to the fact that many growers consider that they greatly injure the vines, although this does not seem to be the experience of cussed onite freely by those present.

Another matter that came under dis cussion was the matter of spring drainage. This has always been a matter of some contention among cranberry raisers and both sides seem to have plenty of advocates.

The experiment station at Cran moor, which is under the personal free, and what it costs you to get out supervision of James Gaynor, has will all depend on yourself, proven a success in every way, and proven a success in eyery way, and the members of the association express themselves pleased with the tion, so patrons may be assured of work accomplished there. Many yines getting the best to be had in the land, have been planted there from all over the world, there being a nursery fo the propagation of new varieties, but as yet no varieties have been found that give any better satisfaction to all raisers than the Wisconsin varieberries and have met with very good success, having secured large, well colored berries that find a ready sale pleted at an Early Day.

During the past week there has been development in railroad matters, and the indications are that it is the intention of the company to an all Silverware hustle the work forward as rapidly as Engineers have been at work down the river where the bridge is to cross and their soundings have developed the fact that it is twenty-four feet from the top of the ice to the solid rock. This means that the stone abutments will be massive pieces of masoury and will cost a large expenditure of money. The bridge will be of steel and fifteen hundred feet in length. It is expected that work will begin on the structure inside of thirty days.

Messrs, Cook and Robers returned from Marshfield this week. They have secured options on most of the right of way to the end of the line, although no purchases have as yet been made. The new right of way parallels the present Marshfeld road much of the distance and while no information is almost at the formation is given out concerning the matter, it is the belief of somethal this new right of way will be pur phased by the Northwestern whether the Scott road is absorbed or not This, however, is only guesswork.

The camou ball was coming in from the south Tuesday morning and being several minutes behind time Engineer Lyons was making considerable of a sprint in order not to be any later than possible. The man was walking along toward the city south of the water tank and as the train came around the curve behind him he paid no attention to it, although the bell was ringing loadly. eer saw he was not aware of his danger and blew several blasts of the whistle. At this the man stopped, turned around and seeing the train very close to him and moving rapidly be made a jump to one side. He had he made a jump to one side. He had just left the ground, however, when the engine struck him and he landed several feet to one side of the track on his back and shoulders.

Those who had witnessed the accident hurried to his assistance but when they arrived he was getting up apparently without any serious in jury. He stated that his shoulders were lame but did not think he was injured.

At the expiration of that time an incompatibility of temperament being discovered, the groom is alleged to have maltreated his bride. The result was the granting of a divorce yesterday in the circuit court.

The aged bride was until her marriage a pamper-resident in Shawano county. By the terms of the divorce she received $500 alimony and both she and her late lansband appear to be happy over the settlement, the latter alleging that the payment of $500 is more preferable than another month of married life.

which came to attend the public reception of the state officials. Gov. La Pollette and his wife stood at the head of the line of the receiving party and the other state officers and their wives werranged along the platform at the north of the armory. The receiving party stood before a background of palms, above which were the letters forming the word Wisconsin. The decorations of the hall were chiefly of cardinal, the university color, and the national colors.

The reception basted for over an bour, after which the line was formed for the grand march, which was lead by Assistant Secretary of State H. P. Schmitt and Miss Nellic Freat of Monroe. They were followed by Gov. and Mrs. La Pollette. After the breaking up of the grand march a quadrille was danced. One of the sets contained Gev. La Follette and Mrs. V. C. Stone, Former Gov. Fishes Like Music.

Fishes Like Music.

All fishes have ears, and very many of them possess voices more or less musical. Some evidence there is, indeed, pointing to the conclusion that they enjoy and appreciate a "concord of sweet sounds." When the famous Humbolit visited the South seas in 1803, an extraordinary noise once startled the crew of the vessel. At first it was like the beating of many drums in the distance, and then the sounds seemed to come from the ship itself. It was decided at length that they were made by fishes.—Cosmopolitan.

The Senate has adopted red light as signals, and the new display is exciting the interest of the latest visitors. The occasion for the adoption of the lights was the desire on the part of the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate to meet the convenience of many members of the House. Owing to the fact that the Senate has been of late much of the time in executive session, members of the House who had business at the Senate traveled across the building, only to be refused admission when they reached the Senate door. Col. Ransdell thought of a way to save all this annecessary travel. The main door of the Senate chumber can be seen from the main door of the House, if visitors are not too numerous. Col. Ransdell had three electric lights inclosed in red glass bulbs placed right over the main door of the Senate. When the Senate goes into executive session a doorkeeper turns on the lights in these years. keeper turns on the lights in three red lumps. A member of the Honse who starts out for the Senate at once sees these red lights and may postpone, kis visit until the lights are turned off.

Brass Bands May be Displaced.

Are brass lands destined to become things of the past? Experiments are being made to discover if aluminant may not be used in the manufacture of highelass wind instruments, says a London newspaper. If this could be done it is thought it would be very desirable on account of its light weight and its freedom from verifigris deposits, and as it is not easily affected by changes of temperature the instruments would be less likely to get out of tune.

WHY MRS. PINKHAM

Is Able to Help Sick Women When Doctors Fail.

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances.

Those things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

To treat a case properly it is necessary to know all about it, and full information, many times, cannot be given by a woman to her family physician. She cannot bring herself to tell everything, and the physician is at a constant disadvantage. This is why, for the past twenty-five years, thousands of women have been confiding their troubles to Mrs. Pinkham, and whose advice has brought happi ness and health to countless women in the United States.

Mrs. Chappell, of Grant Park. III., whose portrait we publish, advises all suffering women to seek Mrs. Pinkham's advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as they cared her of inflammation of the ovaries and weah; she therefore a ready from and womb; she, therefore, speaks from knowledge, and her experience ought to give others confidence. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is absolutely free.

And a single anointing with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. This treatment, when followed in severe cases by mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, to cool and cleanse the blood, is the most speedy, permanent, and economical cure for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scalp humors with loss of hair ever compounded.

USE CUTICURA SOAP, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautilying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

Army bill has brought out several interesting points. The Administrainteresting points. The Administra-tion Senators have been compelled to and the best of it is, I did not walk a schowledge that the situation in the acknowledge that the situation in the Philippines is today worse than it was when Mr. McKinley wrote his message to Congress, and that it is more likely to grow worse than better in the near to grow worse than octier in the near future; that in any event a large num-ber of troops, quite as many, if not more than are there now, must be kept on the islands for an indefinite period. Senator Hoar resumed his old position of antagonism to the McKinley Philipof antagonism to the ackning I imprime policy, and urged that the Filipino leaders be given a hearing at Washington, and that the policy of extermination be abandoned, Senator Caffery denounced the Army bill, because its real purpose is the extermination of the Filipinos was masked, and delared that although this sort of thing might be called "benevolent assimilation", it was no less tyranny and simply a superimposed yoke of imperialism. Senator Teller began his speech by predicting that 200,000, instead of the 100,000 men provided by the bill, would be needed to carry out the present policy, and that for a cen-tury to come the islands would have to be heavily garrisoned. He referred to his having, two years ago, in a speech, laughed at the idea of anything imperialistic being seen under the American flag, and added impressively: "I now retract that assertion."
He characterized the actions of the present Filipine commission as gross imperialism unequaled anywhere on the face of the earth, and said "Under the law they have a right to be there, the law they have a right to be there, but under God's law, which is higher, they have no place there at all. Their actions are the worst form of imperialism." In reply to a question from alism." In reply to a question from Senator Caffrey, Mr. Teller said: "As Mr. Lincoln annonuced in regard to the Mexican war, a war that he did not believe in, he would note for such n force as the government needed, so I have no doubt that as long as our flag floats from the Philippine Archipelago, I will (reluctant as I may be) vote to maintain the army and the flag there. If that is illogical, it is illogical because there is no better way out of it." In closing Mr. Teller fired this broadside at Mr. McKinley:"The President has assured us that there is no danger of imperialism, but if imperialism can be made worse than it is now in the Philippines, you'll have to increase the ability of the human mind for absolution." mind for absolutism.

The Failures in Good Times.

With business of all kinds in a seemingly prosperous condition, the Dun & Co. review of the failures during 1900 will cause surprise. It appears that there has been a large increase in the business casualties over the record of 1899, which showed failures to the number of 9303, with liabilities amounting to $123,132,679. It is estimated that the commercial failures during 1900 will number about 10,630, with liabilities to the amount of $137,-000,000. "Of this number," says the Dun report, "2300 were in minufac-turing for $49,730,000; 7800 in trading for $60,000,000, and 530 brokers, transports, etc., not properly belonging to either of the other classes, for $27,250,-000. Besides these strictly commercial failures there were sixty financial concerns, with liabilities of $34,000,000, swelling the total to 10,690 in munber and $170,000,000 in amount."

The explanation of the increase in the number of faitures in comparison (barley, melon the Republican administration in 1847 carried prices of some of the staple products beyond the limits of reason, and brought about a pause in many lines of manufacturing, which severely affected business during the first half of the year. Grand Rapida Boy Writes From the

Pollowing are some extracts from a letter written by R. W. Lyon while in Grand Rapids, Wis., Jan. 12, 1901. China. He has stace been heard from at Manila and says that it is almost like getting back home after his experi-ence in China:

was detailed to go with the battalion sergeant-major to Tien Sin, to look after all the property belonging to the Fourteenth regiment; so we left Pekin by wagon train on October 6 and rode 20 miles to Tong Chow, where we embarked on a Chinese junk, or flatboat, and started down the Pei-Ho river. The junk was manned by ten coolies, who scalled the old tub down here with no more serious accident than a collision with another old scow one day when they had so much sail up that they could not manage her.

It is as cold here as it is in Grand Rapids in October, so you can imagine how we feel in our thin Manila clothing, and living out of doors at that. We arrived here on the twelfth and are ensconsed in a small brick building in on a compound owned by the Standard Oil company. We have a field range to cook on and good cots to sleep on, with plenty of good quilts to put over us. Our bill of fare for today was as follows: Beef steak rolled in flour, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, toma-toes, rice curry, wheat bread and buttoes, free curry, wheat bread and out-ter, French salad, cranberry sauce, cof-fee, cream and sugar. The salad was made of salmon, boiled eggs, soured potatoes, onions and vinegar.

This city has changed wonderfully since we passed through here a few months ago. Now there are stores and restaurants galore in the Japanese concession, and there are markets where we can go every day and buy fresh meat, fish, eggs, vegetables and groceries to add to our regular ra-Voyer, which was being driven by Henry Wakely took a notion to run things their own way and about succeeded. They commenced their mad career near the Lyons House and their actions unshipped the seat in the sleigh so that the driver had nothing solid to depend on and when the team got in front of Church's drug store it took a sheer to the right and ran into a telephone pole, shattering the tongue and otherwise demolishing the vehicle. The team continued straight for home on east side. Wakely hing onto the rib-bons until he was thrown from the rig and dragged until he decided that des-cretion was the better part of valor and let the team go.

A STEP IN ADVANGE.

Our merchants have always been a wide awake progressive set of men. There has never been a change or improvement suggested to them that, if it were a good thing they did not grasp the fact and make use of it not only to their advantage but also to the advantage of their customers.

The latest advance they have made is the agreement among themselves to close their stores on Sundays. Heretofore it has been the custom to keep the different places of business about town open much of the Sabbath day much to the detriment of the health and temper of the clerks and employes as well as the employers themselves. Now when Sunday comes the long suffering clerk can spend hls sabbath as he sees fit, be it at a place of worship or at some healthful recreation and when Monday comes he is in condition to tackle the burdens of life with a stronger muscle and clearer brain.

It is certainly a step nearer the ideal and there is question of thankfulness on the part of the clerk, be he Jew, Gentile, Heathen, Infidel or Christian.

with Great Achievements.

Philip D. Armon was born at Stockbridge, Madison county, N. Y., in 1832.

His father was Danforth Armon, a farmer of old New England stock, and his mother, whose maiden name was Juliane Brooks, traced her ancestry back to the early days of the Puritans. Philip D. Armon's boyhoost was like that of the average country hoy of that period. He worked about the farm and attended the school and academy. At 20 years he was a strong, robust young man, the leader of his associates, a shrewd trader at the store and noted for his industry and his helpfulness to the family. He

"Five years ago, I was a continual sufferer of Heart Disease. Exposure during the war, and a tendency to grow over-fleshy had greatly aggravated this dread disease. I often had to sit up half the night, I had it so bad when I would lie down. Life looked pretty blue to me, as I thought there was no relief. until one day I read an advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I bought a box that same day, and it was the best day's work I ever did. Before I had used all the first box I could eat and sleep better than I had done for many years, and after three months' faithful treatment, my health was completely restored. I am an old man now, but my step is as clastic and my brain as clear, as when I was thirty years of age."

There has been an indiscriminate wearing of the letter "W" on the caps of university students, which has aroused a teeling of protest among those who want to keep up the high standards of athletics at the university and who demand that that letter shah not be worn except by those entitled to wear it. Under the constitution of the Athletic association no one is allowed to wear the scarler "W" unless he has been a member of one of the varsity teams or won points at an intercollegiate meet. Accordingly, the directors have issued a ban on the use of the letter on caps and sweaters and captains and managers are instructed to enforce the rule. Under this the class caps have come in for censure and class cans have come in for censure and it is recommended that those whose design contains the letter in any form he done away with as lowering the value to those who have succeeded in winning honors. An appeal is made to the honorable and reasonable students to stamp out the cap fad which has cheapened the official letter.

if you like. Why don't you?" "Oh, we don't intend to give ourselves any trouble about it," said Cummings. "We have picked up a little information from the men at work in the park information that Dr. Meredith and the people on the other side would pay hand-somely for."

That's it," said Mrs. Redmond, "and we shall sell to the highest bidder." "Oh, that's your game, is it?" muttered Redmond between his set teeth.

It is," said Commings, calledy,

"You can't get blood out of a gatepost," Redmond said, after a pause. tell you I have got no more than you see here."

"Let's stick to business," insisted Cum-"Now, then, about this timber. From what we picked up as to the value of trees, and a rough calculation as to the number you've cut down, it's pretty clear that the sum realized runs into four figures. Where is it?"

"Where is it?" cried Redmond, exasperated to think that the money was not in his possession. "Why, here it is," and pulling out his notebook, he showed the rough account he kept there of money owing, and made it clear, rather by his manner than the statement of facts, that he could not get the debtors to pay. His vehement indignation was real. He even went so far as to own to the extortion of a trifle from the wheelwright that

"Well, if the money has not come in yet, we must wait till it does," said Mrs. Redmond. "I can make myself comfortable here.

"We shall soon find out whether you are telling the truth or not,," said Cummings. "I shall stroll over to Lullingford to-morrow and make inquiries,"

"Oh, will yon?" "Yes, I shall."

Redmond looked at the pair with savage chagrin. He surmised rightly that the general reluctance to pay now was based upon the hope of not having to pay at all. The rumor he knew had got about that the timber was not his to sell -but he was in difficulties which would oblige him soon to bolt. He was aware that his own poverty-stricken appearance encouraged the belief and strengthened the delitors in their determination withhold payment as long as possible. The presence of two other needy wretches at the Towers must make mat-

He turned away in mute dismay. Then he set at watching them, biting his nails, while a thousand pleasing possibilities re solved in his mind. So many accidents might bappen, and some of these acci-dents might be faial to both. The merest trifle, like the movement of a hand, might lead to such an accident. As this thought occurred to him he raised his hand, yet still ganwing his nails at the knick, and looked round the room in eager search of the trifle that was to rid him of these two who threatened to ruin his last chance of success.

He had reckoned on the litter lighting gradually and on setting fire to the straw a rapidity that upset his calculations. In an instant it seemed that the whole mass of saturated straw was one sheet of flame, leaping up to the ceiling and blinding him with its glare. Dropping the lamp, he dashed round the table and made for the door. A stool stood in his way; he struck his foot violently against and stumbled, knocking it over. It rolled, and stumbling once more against it, he fell forward against the half-open door. It shut to with a bang; but above the crash his ear caught the appulling ring of the loosened handle as it slipped out and fell upon the paved floor outside With bristling horror he put his bands upon the lock; the spindle was gone there was no means of opening the door

And now turning to the blazing pile. with the last hope that there might yet be time to stamp out the flames, he heard shricks arise above the hollow roar of the raging flames, which no human effort could now extinguish. Long tongues of creeping fire blazed into adjoining rooms Redmond retreated as they crept toward him like a vengeance, bending down to gasp for air. But there was no air; the fire had sneked it up and was growing dult for want of it. His wife and Cummings had ceased to shrick; the smoke stifled their cries.

Suddenly there was a crash of glass: Cummings had found a window and torn the glass and sashes out with his hand. in the frantic need of air. But with the inrush of air the flames burst up with fresh energy, wreathing the coiling and curling out through the broken window to lick the air, enveloping the wretch who bung stupefied and powerless over the sill. The flames were at Redmond's feet. He opened his mouth and gasped for breath; the fire seemed to penetrate to his very soul. He threw up his arms, recled forward and dropped with a thud After that there was no other sound but the roar of the flames, the cracking of wood and the fall of glass and plaster.

To shield herself. Nessa had declared that Anderson was her brother, not howing that he actually possessed a sister, believing that the disease which had deprived him of memory would be a safeguard against the discovery of her falsehood. By her own consent to the opera-

Overwhelmed by shame, remorse and despair, she was powerless to make any effort of self-defense. She felt that the end was come, her last resource gone, and that there was no alternative but to submit to the current of events and to he swept helpless into the wide sea where lost souls sink.

Almost without consciousness she are companied Sweyn into the room where the two doctors waited with Anderson to test the extent of his recovery by this experiment. The two doctors cose. It was the first time they had met Nessa.

"My wife, Dr. Hewet, Dr. Channing," said Sweyn,

Her cold hand did not respond to his

"No, that is not my sister. Elsie is fair; not dark; she is shorter and not handsome. This is not my sister."

"Are you sure?" "Quite sure."

"Then you do not know this lady?"

"I am not sure," Anderson said, slow y. "And yet I think -- " he paused. Dr. Channing interposed, seeing the intense anxiety in Sweyn's face as he watched Nessa.

"We are taxing Mrs. Moredith too much-..." he began. But Nessa stopped him with an impatient movement of her hand,

"If you remember me," she said to Anderson, in a clear, low voice, "tell all you "I cannot remember all," Anderson said; "yet something floats in my mind as I look at you-"Is it not possible that you had two sisters--another besides Elsie?" suggested Dr. Hewet, "Ah, that must be it?" Anderson suid, quickly. "Let me think." He was silent a moment; then, with awakening recollection, he continued: "Yes, I remember before I went to sea, a lad, my mother gave birth to a child. I see the little one in its nurse's arms-before I ran away from home-a long while ngo-in the time that is most clear to me. "The time before your needeat?" said Channing; "that is ten years ago. Then Mrs. Meredith could not have been more than eight or nine—quite a child."

"Then she must be my sister."
Turning to Nessa, the doctor explained that most of the events that had occurred since his accident had failed to leave any impression on Anderson's mind and would probably never be recalled. Then as Nessa was seized with a sudden tre mor on hearing this, he cast a glance at Sweyn, signifying the advisability of terminating the painful scene.

Sweyn led her back to her room, mak ing no comment on what had passed— At midnight, when the house was all saying, indeed, scarcely half a dozen silent, a stealthy form entered one of the words. In her room Nessa sank into a chair and bowed her head, speechless with conflicting emotions. Sweyn stood

She laid aside her afternoon gown and put these on. Then she drew off the bracelets from her wrists and the rings from her fingers-all save the wedding ring-and put them in the jewe case Sweyn had given her.

The three doctors went downstairs and sat talking about the case for ten minutes; then Hewet and Channing left, and Sweyn, going into his study, threw himself in his chair and waited.

would fail, and after a moment's silence. "I have done you a grievous wrong, and I have come here to make what repara-tion remains possible to me. I have been selfish and ungenerous to you who have given me so much," she faltered.

An irresistible impulse led Sweyn to lay his hand upon he rarm. She had not the force to resist his touch.

"Oh, this mercy is more than I de erve?" cried Nessa, in trembling grati tude as she sank to her knees.

Sweyn raised her in his arms and said "More than you deserve, beloved darling? no! You have tallen into error and made atonement. You have triumphed ver yourself, and there should be joy in heaven now over your victory!"

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.

When a Man Is Insolent He Should Bo Sure His Master Is Deaf.

One Sunday a jehu from London had driven into Leighton Ruzzard to see a fellow Jehu, and after several pints of ale, they stood at the stable door catching flies and comparing the vices and virtues of their respective masters.

"I can't say nothink when my boss is ababt," said the town man, "The slightest word from me an' 'e jumps dahn' my throat, spur an' all, an' gallops my lights aht."

"Poof," said the countryman, "W'y don't yer talk serious to 'im? Pile it on thick, bor. They always caves in quick ef yer wop it into 'em.'' The towningn started in amazement.

"'Ere, look 'ere; that's my guvner acomia' now. Now you 'old tight an' listen." The master, a grave looking man, anproached; and, snavely speaking to his coachman, gave orders for the carriage to be ready at 6 o'clack. "All right, old cock!" replied the coachman; "you shut up on that lay double quick; I knows my biz, I da; an'

if you come pakin' yer ngly nose in 'ere a-Sundays, w'en it's my day off, I'll mall it." The master regarded him interrogatively for a moment; then; inclining his head gravely in aceptance of his coachman's words, he turned on his heel and walked away.

The townman pondered long on his way home, and some time later, when his master spoke to him about some triffe he let fly all hissing het in almost he very words his friend had used, Whereupon his master landed him one between the eyes and then took him by the seat of the soul and swept the stableyard with him, after which he threw him into the hayloft to reconsider the matter.

his friend he recounted his experience, and the latter scratched his chin solenuly as he remarked: "Well, ye see, bor, ye have to be careful. Ye must know yer man, like. Fur instance, my guvner, 'e's deaf, an' i s'pose yourn ain't. Anyways ye must know yer man, James; ye must know yer man."-Modera Society.

MANY CHILDREN LOST.

There Were 109 Immates at the Hos pital and a Corps of About Thirty Nurses.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 8 "Fire broke out in the hospital section of the Roches ter Orbhan asylum at I o'clock this morning and the flames spread rapidly to other sections of the institution.

It was but a few minutes after 1 o'clock this morning when a nurse in the hospital. Miss Cline, smelled snoke. She immediately informed another nurse, Miss Vallient, and the latter reported the matter to the marron, Miss L. Rienhart. The smeke was speedily located in the boiler room and word was sent to police headquarters. All the fire apparatus was rushed to the burning building, but before the first engine arrived the neighbors for blocks around had arrived and were doing their best to reseme the immates.

Shortly after the fire broke out, a boil-Shortly after the fire broke out, a boil-er exploded with terrific force, completely blowing out the lower part of the west and of the connecting wing, thereby cit-ling off the escape of the children from the east end of the building. The rhif-dren who were married to the connecting wing were apparently dazed by the force of the explosion and with difficulty were able to take in their surroundines when able to take in their surroundings when inally aroused.

In the east wing were the sleeping apartments of the asylum. They were located mainly on the second and third floors. The lower floor was known as the Chorns of Cries and Grouns.

The explosion, though of great force, was not loud enough to awaken the sleeping nurses. When the smoke began to pour into the east wing it was but a few seconds before the whole sleeping population was brought to a realization of the situation with a suddenness which at once seemed to rob nearly everyone of their judgment and mental faculties. A terrible chorus of cries and groans tilled the air. It was impossible to see anything and as the thick snoke poured in the scene became one of indescribable confusion. The chief murse, Miss Ashdown, did all within her power to save the children and murses.

When the firemen arrived on the scene their attention was first turned to the Chorns of Cries and Grouns.

When the firemen arrived on the scene their attention was first turned to the inmates of the hospital ward, in the west wing of which is the older section of the institution. On the floor next to the top was Miss Brad. With the flomes leaping all around her it seemed impossible to escape. She did, however, but was so seriously injured by falling that she will not live.

Distressing Scenes.

Ambulances from all of the hospitals were on the ground almost as soon as the fire companies, and houses in the neighborhood were opened to receive the little waits who were carried from the asylum. The ambulances were started to the hospitals with the more seriously burned children. In several cases they burned children. In several cases they were dead when taken from the rehicle at the hospital doors. The scenes around the asylun were beyond description. A large portion of the asylun building was totally destroyed and the portion that remains standing is probably in such remains that the description that is described. condition that its demolition will be necessary.

Most of the children and adults carried from the burning building were unconscious from the effects of the thick smoke.

Fall of a Fireman.

Fall of a Fireman.

Fireman Morris Keating went up to the roof on a ladder to rescue women and children. Just as he reached the top a stream of water was turned on him to keep away the flames, but it had the effect to confuse the man. He reached for a woman and the latter jumped for his arms, Suddenly the man lost his hold on the ladder. The crowd granued as the fireman fell with the woman to the ground. The woman was killed outright and the fireman was so seriously injured that he may die. The foof was coveged with children who had escaped through the sentile from the upper rooms and the the sentile from the upper rooms and the firemen were kept busy carrying them down. Many escaped unharmed in this way.

One nearby house was like a morgue. Half a dozen dead lay on the floor in heaps of consumed rags. Crowds gathered to look, but turned away quickly, sickened at the dreadful sight.

Miss F. M. Hibbard, who had charge of twenty-three children on the third floor in the main building, was terribly burned about the face and body. The flesh on her face was hanging in big patches and bilisters had formed on the exposed portions of her body.

CRANBERRY GROWERS MEET.

A Successful Session in this City.

The annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' associawest side on Tuesday, January S, and those present say that it was both an ateresting and instructive session.

All of the old officers were re-elected to fill the positions they have occupied so acceptably during the past year and are as follows: President, Charles Briere of this city; secretary, W. H. Fitch of Cranmoor; treasurer, M. O. Potter of this city.

After calling the meeting to order the president addressed those present. It is to be gotten up for the benefit of the president addressed those present. Of this address covered several subjects, among which was some good advice to under an able teacher so that by next raisers of berries to take more care summer they may be able to get out the fruit might reach the market in that will be an honor to the town. screened from the best fruit and thus ruary, the date to be settled later. add to the quality of the berries.

H. O. Kruschke was not present to show his pneumatic berry picking device but the rough model that he exhibited in this city last fall was presented by Charles Briere, who explained its mechanism and advantages provided it was thought feasible. Much interest was displayed in the matter as any device will be welcomed by growers that will lessen the cost of picking, which in the past has been excessive and in some instances made the close competition with eastern fruit very hard. There were also two models of pickers exhibited from the east. They were much the same as what is known as the cranberry rake in this locality, and only differed slightly in construction from what has been used here. These rakes have been abandoned in the past in this section, however, owing to the fact that many growers consider that they greatly injure the vines, although this oes not seem to be the experience or eastern raisers. The matter was discussed quite freely by those present.

Another matter that came under discussion was the matter of spring This has always been a matter of some contention among cranberry raisers and both sides seem to have plenty of advocates.

The experiment station at Cranmoor, which is under the personal supervision of James Gaynor, has proven a success in every way, and the members of the association express themselves pleased with the work accomplished there. Many yines have been planted there from al! over the world, there being a nursery for the propagation of new varieties, but as yet no varieties have been found that give any better satisfaction to ail raisers than the Wisconsin variesuccess, having secured large, well n the market at good prices.

The association is in a very prosinterested in the raising of cranber-

While the raising of cranberries is not a new thing in this part of the country, still the growers feel that they have a lot to learn and there seems to be a general disposition to make the most of the meetings.

Installed Officers.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs installed their officers Tuesday evening. D. B. Smith, district deputy organizer of Marshfield, installed the officers in the Odd Fellows lodge, while Mrs. George Minnehan acted as installing officer in the Rebekahs. The officers installed in the Odd Fellows were, P. L. Utley, N. G.: H. Rablin, R. S.: H. H. Voss. treasurer: H. C. Timm, V. G.:

G. W. Davis, F. S. Officers in the rebekah were as follows: Mrs. Irving Dunayen, N. G.: Mrs. N. Church, V. G.; Mrs. Burchell, T.: Mrs. George Baker, chaplain. After the installation ceremonies the ladies served a supper and those in attendance enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

Woodmen of the World,

The Woodmen of the World held an open installation at their hall on the west side on Tuesday evening at which there was an attendance of sixty-seven. The work of installation was assisted by district deputy organizer. M. Pillar. The same evening one new member was initiated and seven applications voted on. The lodge is in a very healthy condition. A supper was served at W. H. Barnes' place after the ceremonies, this part of the evening's entertainment being under the auspices of the ladies.

Knights of Pythias.

The Knights of Pythias installed their officers at their hall on Tuesday evening. C. F. Kellogg, G. C.; Will Kellogg, G. P.: and J. R. Chapman, G. M. A.; acted as installing officers. The officers were installed as elected with the exception of Guy Nash who was elected to take the place of T. A.

Taylor, the latter having resigned. After the installation a social session was held and there were refreshments in the shape of oysters on the halfshell, sandwiches, coffee and cigars.

A GRAND OPENING.

The Twentieth Century Place to Be Opened Tuesday Night.

The Twentieth Century place, coffee, lunch, reading and rest room, will be opened to the public on Tuesday evening by a grand blow-out and general good time. There will be oysters, both raw and cooked, with all the things that go with them to make a palatable dish, coffee, cake, pie and other lunch counter delicacias. This being the first night that the place is open, the eatables will not have had time to petrify and the most delicately constituted need not be afraid to be in attendance.

Everything will be cheap. Coffee and sinkers, five cents, and everything | days. else in proportion. It is figured that the lunch room can be made to pay the running expenses of the whole institution, and if this is possible it means that the 20th Century place can be made permanent. Among the furvishings of the lunch department is a coffee urn that just knocks the spots off of anything of the kind that has ever been brought to this city and will alone be well worth the price of ad-mission. However, you need not worry about the admission, as it is free, and what it costs you to get out wilt all depend on yourself.

FORMER WISCONSIN JUDGE IS DEAD.

W. C. Purdy. Who Lived in Viroqua for Many Years, Passes Away in Kansas.

Viroqua. Wis., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—B. F. Purdy of this city received a dispatch from Kansas announcing the death of his father, Judge William G. Purdy, a pioneer who settled in Vernou county in 1850. He was for eight years clerk of the courts, two terms county judge and represented Vernon county in the state Senate in 1863. He moved to Kansas about twenty years ago. . In the case of Mr. Purdy, who was a defeated candidate for county judge, the Supreme court of this state handed down an importent decision. Purdy was a candidate for re-election and James Newell advertised that he would perform the duties of the office for half the salary fixed by the county board. Newell was elected. Indge Purdy contested and the Supreme court held that Newell's proposition was a bribe to voters and awarded the sear to Pardy.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8 - [Special.]-The university gymnasium was filled to its capacity last evening by the crush which came to attend the public reception of the state officials. Gov. La Follette and his wife stood at the head of the line of the receiving party and the other state officers and their wives were ranged along the platform at the north of the armory. The receiving party stood before a background of palms, above which were the letters forming the word Wisconsin. The decorations of the hall were chiefly of cardinal, the university color, and the national colors.

The reeption lasted for over an bour. after which the line was formed for the grand march, which was lead by Assistant Secretary of State H. P. Schmitt and Miss Nellie Freat of Monroe. They were followed by Gov. and Mrs. La Follette. After the breaking up of the grand march a quadrille was dauced. One of the sets contained Gov. La Follette and Mrs. Fred Spenseley, Former United States Senator W. H. Vilas and Mrs. W. Stone, Former Gov. Peck and Mrs. La Follette. State Senator Bashford and Mrs. U. D. Brandenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. La Follette and their party left the ballroom at 11 o'clock. The crowd at that time still filled the hall, but it gradually meited away thereafter. The attendance displayed a variety of costume, many wearing the regulation evening dress, but many more appearing in ordinary street or business at-tire. The reception committee was abliged to form in line and move the erowd partially to the rear of the hall to make room for the dancing. It was not until after midnight there was com to dance without being crusbed.

The reception and dance were a popu lar success. Super was served in the gunroom of the symnasium from 10 to 2 o'clock. The affair at the sym ended the ceremonies of inauguration day.

One of the clerks at the Ebbit house was married the other day. Instead of taking a vacation he went immediately to work. Incoming guests were greeted by a huge pasteboard sign standing directly in front of the desk. On the sign were two hearts pierced with an arrow and the inscription:

THIS IS MY WEDDING DAY. I AM SO HAPPY.

Of course every guest laughed and the clerk looked as though he had been guilty of sheep-stealing. He did not know the sign was there and thought there was something in his appearance that told ev-eryone he had just been married. Guests from all parts of the United States looked at the sign and then congratulated him He is wondering yet how they knew. It is said that Representative Cowherd of Missouri is responsible for the sign.

The other morning a gentleman with white bearn, closely cropped, and quite an aldermanic girth, walked down Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol, says the Washington. Post. On the way he stepped into a shop kept by John Denham to make a purchase. The shopkeeper looked at his customer closely.

"Did anyone ever tell you." he asked.

"that you looked like ex-President Har-

"Yes," was the reply. "I have heard it said very often. Do you think there is a resemblance?"

"I should say so," answered Denham.
"I never saw Gen. Harrison, but from his pictures. I should say you were a dead ringer for him."

The purchaser gave a little chuckle as if he were intensely pleased, and then went out of the shop, proceeding on his way to the capitol. Denham went to the door and looked after him. Standing in the doorway was Al Reed, the district agent of the Atlantic Coast line. "Al," said Denham. "did you see that man who was in here just now."

"Yes." said Reed.
"I told him." said Denham. "that he looked just like ex-President Harrison."
"Of course he did." exclaimed Reed.
"That was Harrison himself."

The Senate has adopted red light as signals, and the new display is exciting the interest of the latest visitors. The occasion for the adoption of the lights was the desire on the part of the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate to meet the convenience of many members of the House. Owing to the fact that the Senate has been of late much of the rime in House. Owing to the fact that the Senate has been of late much of the time in executive session, members of the House who had business at the Senate traveled across the building, only to be refused admission when they reached the Senate door. Grass Used to Fight Sand.

For centuries the countries by the sea baye endured the evils arising from drifting sand and have sought with indifferent success to lessen them. It seems, however, that nature has provided an nowever, that nature has provided an ample remedy for her own cures in the form of certain grasses that grow in sandy wastes. Wherever they appear the sand is held intact, and it has been found that it is possible to select and transplant these grasses so that the most law-less beaches may be held in control. By their aid the people of Holland have finally secured their hard-carned country-from the constant efforts of the North sea to reclaim it; and, after a contest of sea to reclaim it; and, after a contest of nearly 100 years, France has transformed the desolate shores of Gascony into fer-tile fields and forest lands.—Pearson's

Are brass bands destined to become things of the past? Experiments are being made to discover if aluminum may not be used in the manufacture of highclass wind instruments, says a London newspaper. If this could be done it is thought it would be very desirable on account of its light weight and its free-dom-from-verdigris deposits, and as it is not easily affected by changes of temperature the instruments would be less likely to get out of tune.

In the Interest of Accuracy. At a meeting of the Mansfield House settlement last night Percy Alden, the warden, told a story of the mother of Robert Louis Stevenson. The widow of the novelist was telling how, in the include of the standard island of Samoa, the old lady had taken walks with a native chieftain "who had killed thousands and eaten hundreds." "Oh. Fanny." exclaimed the novelist's mother in horror, "you know it was only eleven!"—London Chronicle.

WHY MRS. PINKHAM

Is Able to Help Sick Women When Doctors Fail.

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances.

Those things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

To treat a case properly it is necessary to know all about it. and full information, many times, cannot be given by a woman to her family physician. She cannot bring herself to tell everything, and the physician is at a constant disadvantage. This is why, for the past twenty-five years, thousands of women have been confiding their troubles to Mrs. Pinkham, and whose advice has brought happiness and health to countless women in the United States. Mrs. Chappell, of Grant Park, Ill.,

whose portrait we publish, advises all suffering women to seek Mrs. Pinkham's advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as they cured her of inflammation of the ovaries and womb; she, therefore, speaks from knowledge, and her experience ought to give others confidence. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is absolutely free.

And a single anointing with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. This treatment, when followed in severe cases by mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, to cool and cleanse the blood, is the most speedy, permanent, and economical cure for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scaip humors with loss of hair ever compounded.

Millions of Women

USE CUTICURA SOAP, assisted by Cuticura Ointment. for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandouff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

The debate in the Senate on the Army bill has brought out several interesting points. The Administration Senators have been compelled to acknowledge that the situation in the Philippines is today worse than it was when Mr. McKinley wrote his message to Congress, and that it is more likely Senator Hoar resumed his old position of antagonism to the McKinley Philippine policy, and urged that the Filipino leaders be given a hearing at Washington, and that the policy of extermination be abandoned, Senator Caffery denounced the Army bill, because its real purpose is the extermiand delared that although this sort of thing might be called "benevolent we arrived here on the twelfth and are nation of the Pilipinos was masked, thing might be called benevolent assimilation", it was no less tyranny and simply a superimposed yoke of imperialism. Senator Teller began his speech by predicting that 200,000, instead of the 100,000 men provided by the bill, would be needed to carry out the present policy, and that for a century to come the islands would have to be heavily garrisoned. He referred toes, rice curry, wheat bread and butto his having, two years ago, in a speech, laughed at the idea of anything imperialistic being seen under the American flag, and added impressively: "I now retract that assertion." He characterized the actions of the present Filipine commission as gross imperialism unequaled anywhere on the face of the earth, and said "Under the law they have a right to be there, but under God's law, which is higher, they have no place there at all. Their actions are the worst form of imperialism." In reply to a question from Senator Caffrey, Mr. Teller said: "As Mr. Lincoln announced in regard to the Mexican war, a war that he did not believe in, he would vote for such I have no doubt that as long as our flag floats from the Philippine Archipelago. I will (reluctant as I may be) different nationalities. vote to maintain the army and the flag there. If that is illogical, it is illogical because there is no better way out of it." In closing Mr. Teller fired this broadside at Mr. McKinley: The President has assured us that there is one person, drawn by a fleet-footed no danger of imperialism, but if imperialism can be made worse than it is now in the Philippines, you'll have to increase the ability of the human mind for absolutism.

themselves to close their stores on Sundays. Heretofore it has been the custom to keep the different places of business about town open much of the Sabbath day much to the detriment of the health and temper of the clerks and employes as well as the employers themselves. Now when Sunday comes the long suffering clerk can spend hls sabbath as he sees fit, be it at a place of worship or at some healthful recreation and when Monday comes he is in condition to tackle the burdens of life with a stronger muscle and clearer brain.

It is certainly a step nearer the ideal and there is question of thankfulness on the part of the clerk, be he Jew, Gentile, Heathen, Infidel or Christian.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. S.-Bert Patterson of I a Crosse, Wis. with the aid of the St. Louis police, has found his sister Annie, whom he lost trace of six years ago. She was found at 4444 Cottage avenue. and in her finding there was brought to light one of the strangest stories, says

Capt. Gillaspie, that ever came under his observation. Six years ago Annie Patterson disappeared from her home in La Crosse. She left no trace. Her brother legan a search then that ended Sunday, when she started with him to his northern home, which will be hers in the fatur. Patterson is a traveling sale-man for a Chicago crockery establishment. In his iourneys he never relinquished the search for his sister. He got no trace until a few weeks ago, when he learned that she had been in Thicago. He found where she had roomed. She had left a trunk. and in it were letters showing that she intended going to St. Louis. He arrived here Saturday. Among the letters he found the address 1310 Bayard avenue. He went to this address, after having laid the case before the police. Capt. S. E. Greenwell of the steamer H. M. Hoxie lives there. Mrs. Greenwell is a sister of H. L. Sears of 4444 Cottage avenue, where the missing girl was Thought Girl Her Niece.

"I supposed that this girl was a niece of mine until a few days ago. said Mrs. Greenwell. "More than twenty years ago my brother. H. L. Sears, was married to a woman with whom he lived but a short time. They separated, and she went to Chicago, where a child was born to her. At my brother's request I insti-tuted search for the woman, and was told that the child had died a few hours after being born. I heard no more until a few weeks ago. My brother had remarried in the meanwhile. His present wife is a daughter of Judge Albert Gould of Knox, Ind.
"About a month ago my brother brought a young woman to our home and introduced her as his daughter. He said he had located her through a railroad conductor. He told me that I had been deceived as to the child's death twenty years ago. He described how he had traced her and had finally found and had brought her home. She was a pretty girl gentle mannered, and verified his I had no reason to doubt it until Mr. Patterson came with the detective from Capt. Gillaspie. Mr. Patterson showed me letters which plainly showed that my brother had deceived me as to her identity.

"Here she went by the name of Beulah. He said that a family of the name of Rivers had taken her to raise, and when he found her she was known as Beulah Rivers. The letters Mr. Patterson found showed that this was not true. Recognition is Mutual,

"I sought Mrs. Sears. She, too, told me that she had discovered that the girl was not his daughter. We went to the house of my brother. They were all at nome. Mr. Patterson recognized his sister, and she recognized him. She told him that my brother had induced her to play the part that she had. She was working for a Chicago book concern when she met him. She was almost destitute He professed to know something hor, the said, and told her that there was a sum of money due her. The best claims had been gathered up before young Armour reached the golden state, but while others were fitting from place to place hoping to make a strike the broad-shouldered New Yorker stuck to his claim and worked over every bit of earth. Four years of mining, quietly and unostentatiously enabled him to gather a few thousand dollars. He returned home in 1856.

Brothers Worked Together.

A striking feature in the life of Mr. Armour was the business development of his brothers-there were six boys in the family. One caught the spirit of patriotism in 1861 and enlisted in the Union army and was slain in battle. The life was fast coming to a close. There was nothing of the plunging or soaring about his business—just a keen, persistent industry, a native shrewdness that grew out of his great mental equipose. and such a man's habits are of the simple and unostentatious character. He had no set rule of conduct, except early rising and its corollary, early retiring. He was up at 5 o clock every morning and rarely out of bed at 9 at night. The objections of the Southern viceroys are precisely the same as those which the court originally telegraphed to Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang, the court eventually agreed to endeavor to make better terms after the signing of the note.
The court doubtless was influenced by the protests from the South, and it was generally felt that the dynasty had less influence there than in the North. Chang Chih Tung has strongly urged the court not to return to Pekin, but to establish a capital in the Yang Tse val-ley. He says this will strengthen the South toward the Chinese cause, and that the signing of the agreement as it exists at present would be a most serious menace to the dynasty, as to the state of the country is doubtful. The note will be signed if China is very sincere in carrying out the provisions of the agreement.

Li Hung Chang is invisible to the public. His attendants claim that he is suffering from a serious relapse, though many persons think his relapse is made a convenience so the signing of the note can be delayed until the court can be heard from again.

There has been an indiscriminate wearing of the letter "W" on the caps of university students, which has aroused a feeling of protest among those who want to keep up the high standards of athletics at the university and who demand that that letter shall not be worn except by those entitled to wear it. Under the constitution of the Athletic association no one is allowed to wear the scarlet "W" miess he has been a member of one of the varsity teams or won points at an intercollegiate meet. Accordingly, the directors have issued a bun on the use of the letter on caps and sweaters and captains and managers-are-instructed to enforce the rule. Under this the class cans have come in for censure and it is recommended that those whose design contains the letter in any form be done away with as lowering the value to those who have succeeded in winning honors. Northern Wisconsin Develop=

That rapidly developing territory which occupies the northern half of Wisconsin is not new enough to cause the hardships and vicissitudes of frontier life, and not old enough to keep away the intending settler on account of exorbitant land prices. It is in that stage of partial development which gives great opportunity to bring it to the highest point of perfection and prosperity. Schools, good roads and other improvements are going in.
All that is needed, is a small capital.
Brawn and brain, supplemented by push and energy will do the rest. The iron ore, marl, kaolin and clay beds, the timber and the rich soil, give equal opportunity to the settler and the manufacturer. Land is cheap and can be purchased on easy terms. The Wisconsin Central Railway offers facilities for the quick and cheap transportation of its products and as the line penetrates the very center of this vast northern territory, choice of location is not confined to any one particular locality.

Interesting pamphlets and maps fully describing this beautiful and rich country can be obtained by addressing. W. H. Killen, land and industrial commissioner, Geo. T. Stevens Point Gazette: On the first of February there will be a number of changes in the legal profession at Wausau. The firm of Bump, Kreut zer & Rosenberry will be succeeded by the firm of Krentzer, Bird & Rosenberry, Mr. Bump retiring and his place being taken by Claire B. Bird, at present junior member of the firm of Mylrea & Bird. It is probable that John J. Okoneski will be connected with the new firm. Ex-Atty. General W. H. Myirea will practice alone. E. L. Bump will become a member of the firm of Marchetti & Bump, of which his son, Franklin E. Bump, is junior member, the firm name becoming Bump, Marchetti & Bump.

Gov. Scofield's famous cow, which at one time filled the public eye and was a political issue, started for her home in Oconto lately by express. The cow came to Madison from Oconto four week securing three foxes and the years ago by express and it was charged that she came on an express frank. The crate containing the cow bore the inscription: "Scofield's cow returning home by express after four years of official life, older but wiser." The cow's nolk was tested today by the experts at the agricultural department of the university, and the milk showed 8.4 pounds of butter fat to 100 pounds of milk. This is said to be an unusual quality.

A number of men have assembled at Chicago to await the second coming of Christ. They believe the time is near at hand.
